seembled at India apolis, rejected with scorn every proposition of fase with the Republicans, and after endorsing the nomination of Fillmore and D elson and approving the American platform, nominated a genuine National American. Fillmore and D nelson electoral ticket.

The S.g.-Nichts, who lave male this shameness attack upon the American party of Indiana, have been careful to conceal the fact that the Democracy of I as a re already so completely given over to Freesotlism that there was no theed for fusion on their part. The leaders of the Democratic party of Indiana, the whole Indiana Democracy, through their State Convention, are thoroughly and completely committed to the most ultra and extreme doctrines of the Freesoil party.

We publish below a correspondence between R. H. Rousseau, fieq., then a member of the Legislature of In iana, and all the Democratic leaders who were candidates before that body for election as United States Senator. These were Hannegan and Chamberlain and Law and Whitsomb and Owen, the acknowledged leaders and shining lights of the Indiana Democratic party of the Indiana Democratic properties and shining lights of the Indiana Democratic properties and shining l

From a careful perusal of these several letters it will be seen that Gov. Whitteemb was more emphatic and unequivocal in his Freezoilism than either of his competitors, and It was this fact doubtless which determined his selection by the Democratic caucus as the nomine of five party.
